Six Injured When Two Plants Burn at Heber Springs

Bruner-Ivory Handle Co.
Factory Destroyed After Explosion

LOSS ESTIMATE $35,000

Explosion Shakes Nearly
All Business Houses of That City

HEBER SPRINGS—Two manufacturing plants were wrecked and six men were injured, two seriously, in a series of disasters started by explosion of a boiler at the W. B. Baker Lumber Company mill, a quarter-mile south of the city Tuesday afternoon.

The explosion set fire to the Bruner-Ivory Company's handle factory located 150 yards away from the lumber mill and across the tracks of the Missouri and North Arkansas railway and it burned to the ground.

At the lumber mill about 75,000 feet of lumber in the dry kilns was destroyed, in addition to damage caused by the explosion. Loss at the lumber mill was estimated at around $20,000 and at the handle factory at $15,000.

Six Men Injured

Injured were:

Ollie Baker, owner of the lumber mill. He was struck on the top of the head by a piece of flying metal.

He is at Estelle hospital here in an unconscious condition and physicians were unable to determine the extent of his injuries.

W. C. Johnson, insurance man of Fayetteville and ex-banker of Heber

Spring and St. Louis, bones broken in both arms, nose broken, left eye injured, probable internal injuries.

James Reeves, who was firing the boiler, cuts and bruises.

Walter Fry, laborer, cuts and bruises.

Wilson White, injured arm.

Eugene Baker, manager of the lumber mill and brother of the owner, cut on the neck by flying metal which missed his jugular vein by a fraction of an inch.

Cause of Explosion Unknown

The Baker mill is one of the largest in this section. Only 20 men were at work there but ordinarily it employs between 40 and 50 men.

Cause of the explosion is not known.

Reeves, the fireman, said that he examined the boiler a few minutes before the explosion and that it was full of water.

The explosion was terrific. It shook nearly every business building in the city. The shell of the boiler was flattened like a piece of paper and hurled

300 yards. A railroad water tank 150 yards was badly damaged by flying metal and bricks. A PWA gang working on a bridge 300 yards away was showered with debris.

Insurance Man In Hard Luck

Ollie Baker and Johnson were in the office which was riddled by the flying debris. Johnson had called at the plant to collect for some insurance that he had written. Baker had just handed him a check which Johnson was holding in his hand when the explosion occurred. The check has not been found.

It was Johnson's second narrow escape in two days. He was fishing from a boat three miles east of the city

Monday when lightning struck a tree close by and Johnson was knocked down into the bottom of the boat and stunned.

He formerly was president of the Arkansas National bank here but resigned to go to St. Louis and join the banking enterprise of Ed Mays. When the St. Louis bank closed, Johnson returned to Arkansas and made his home at Fayetteville. He has been selling insurance since.

Factory Bursts Into Flames

The Heber Springs Fire Department and company's fire-fighting equipment went into action promptly as fire broke out in the lumber mill following the explosion. They succeeded in confining the flames to the dry kilns.

However, a few minutes later flames broke out in the Bruner-Ivory handle factory. The building was a big frame structure about 300 feet square. It is believed that it was ignited by pieces of hot iron from the boiler explosion.

Flames spread rapidly and the fire fighting men were unable to check them.

The handle factory was a branch of a concern located at Hope, Ark. Rollie

Bruner was local manager.

Physicians at the hospital were uncertain as to the chance for recovery of Ollie Baker and Johnson. Both were injured so severely that careful examination had been impossible.

Johnson's Son Notified

HUTCHINSON, Kan. —(P)—Monte

Johnson, Springfield third baseman, hit a home run, scoring a man ahead,

in the fourth inning of the Cardinal-

Hutchinson game here Tuesday night.

Just as he crossed the plate the telephone in the park rang. It was for Johnson. He was advised that his father, W. C. Johnson, had been critically injured in an explosion at Heber

Spring. He left for the Arkansas city at once.

There are 2137 miles of railroad in the state of Maine.

Board Advocates Clemency for 50

Shortening of Sentences
Advocated by State
Penal Group

LITTLE ROCK, Ark. — (P) — The state penal board recommended Tuesday that Governor Bailey commute for parole in 1940, 50 prisoners, including 47 convicted murderers and three life-termers.

The board said Crabtree, sentenced for the murder of a deputy sheriff at Texarkana in 1933, had made a "splendid record" at the prison farm.

Should the governor commute the sentence, Crabtree would be eligible for parole in 1940. Accused of slaying two officers, he was tried for the death of one. Records at the governor's office did not list the names of the men he was charged with killing.

The board recommended the executive grant a 90 day furlough to D. B. Niven, Jr., 37, of Pine Bluff, sentenced to 21 years in 1934 for second degree murder in the slaying at Pine Bluff of Ray Mead.

Charles Grier, state parole officer, said Tuesday night he had not recommended clemency for Niven to the board.

The board asked the governor to reduce the sentence of Floyd Reynolds from life to 21 years. Convicted of murder in White county in 1927, he escaped and was not returned to prison until 1932, when he was captured at San Springs, Okla.

Another recommendation to the governor was that the life sentence of Casey Floyd, former Texarkana, Ark., high school student, be commuted to 10 years. He was convicted of criminal assault at Mena, Polk county, in 1934. Commutation of his sentence would make him eligible for parole.

The board also advocated a 60 day furlough for W. M. Crow, under life sentence from Union county for murder. He was sentenced to electrocution in 1928 for the slaying of Joe Osinsbeck at Norphlet but his supreme court commuted the sentence to life imprisonment.

A parole was recommended for O. L. Cook, who recently was given a furlough by Governor Bailey after serving nine years of a life sentence from Union county for murder. Originally he was given the death penalty, but the supreme court reducing it to life in 1932. He was convicted of killing Scott Freeman at Rainbow City.

The board recommended paroles for 44 other convicts.

Thinks It's Hot?

LINCOLN, Neb. — (P) — Too blamed hot today? says Thomas A. Blair, official observer for the U. S. weather bureau and assistant professor of meteorology at the University of Nebraska, pointing to the plight of citizens of Tripoli.

There, on a certain date, he says the thermometer reached 136 degrees. And if that doesn't chill you, he adds, think of February 9, 1933, and Yellowstone national park. The mercury registered 56 below zero—lowest recorded temperature in the United States.

Blair recalls that a thermometer, left for 19 years near the top of Mount McKinley in Alaska, showed a minimum temperature of 100 when recovered.

With this he contrasts a 134-degree recording in Death Valley, California, which he says is the highest on record in the U. S.

This data is contained in "Weather Elements," a book Blair has just written.

Flyers Believed Marooned If They Are Still Alive

South Pacific Wastes Being Searched by Ships and Planes

MANY SMALL ISLANDS

Lost Plane Could Not Send Signals in the Water,
Putnam Says

HONOLULU — (P) — Navy ships and planes, coordinating their efforts in the vast hunt for Amelia Earhart, aimed Wednesday at a new region in the South Pacific wastes where a growing belief and some facts indicated that the missing aviator may be marooned.

A coast guard cutter at San Francisco said that it had been checking the Cutter Itasca but had no news from the missing aviator nor her navigator, Frederick J. Noonan.

The battleship Colorado changed its course and sped toward Winslow bank, 100 miles east of Howland Island, and the navy moved to co-ordinate searching efforts. The course change coincided with an apparently growing belief that if Miss Earhart and her navigator, Frederick J. Noonan, were alive they had reached an island or a coral reef.

Many Small Islands

Small islands are numerous, beginning some 200 miles to the south, east and northwest of Howland, but virtually are unknown in the previously searched area to the north.

The Colorado, which had been heading from Honolulu toward the area north of Howland where the Coast Guard cutter Itasca, the navy minesweeper Swan and the British freighter Morby had been searching, planned to release its three catapult planes over the Winslow bank area late Wednesday.

In Washington, the Navy Department announced that direction of all American vessels engaged in the search had been placed in the hands of Rear Admiral Orin G. Murfin, 14th Naval District commandant in Honolulu. This includes the Itasca, the Swan, the aircraft carrier Lexington and three destroyers.

Winslow Bank lies on the northern fringe of the Phoenix Islands, which center at about 280 miles southeast of Howland. Shortly before the search plane was changed, George Palmer Putnam, husband of Miss Earhart, reported the directional bearings taken on the most likely of the mysterious radio signals from that region all pointed to the Phoenix Islands.

He said if any of the numerous radio reports seemingly from the lost world-girdling plane were genuine, the ship must have been down on a reef or an island. He said the plane would not have been able to send signals if it down in the water.

Putnam expressed appreciation of the naval and Coast Guard efforts. "They have done everything possible," he said, "and I am grateful for their expensive efforts."

Costs of Search

Despite the unprecedented mobilization of naval forces for the hunt, the Navy Department said it was impossible to estimate whether it involved costs in addition to regular operating expenses. Officials said the normal daily operating cost of five naval vessels involved was about $13,750 but pointed out this expense had to be borne whether the ships were in port or under way.

DeAnn to Be Host

Growers Ask Limitation
in Effort to Improve
Market Prices

WASHINGTON. — (P) — Secretary Wallace signed an order limiting the shipment of watermelons from four Southern states for 48 hours starting at 12:01 a. m. July 8.

Southern growers had asked the limitation to permit markets, oversupplied largely as a result of holiday shipments, to clear.

Officials said the order, affecting Georgia, Florida and the Carolinas, would create an opportunity to restore depressed prices.

Brooklyn Child Falls 4 Stories to Death

NEW YORK. — (P) — A propensity for wandering led 2½-year-old Muro Galita, Jr., to his death Tuesday night. Two weeks ago he disappeared from his home in Brooklyn and was found walking about a cemetery more than a mile away.

Tuesday night, while visiting at the apartment of an aunt, he disappeared again. He was found dead of a fractured skull in the apartment back yard.

Officers said he had climbed to the apartment roof and fallen four stories.

MIND Your MANNERS

Test your knowledge of correct social usages by answering the following questions, then checking against the authoritative answers below:

1. What should a bridge player do when his partner unwittingly gives information about his hand?

2. Can a declaration or pass once made be retracted?

3. Is it impolite for a player to drum on the table while he is sizing up his hand?

4. Should a player draw a card from his hand, and hold it apart ready to play when his time comes?

5. Is it permissible to look at quitted tricks?

What would you do if—
You are hostess at a bridge party where the guests are not evenly matched, some being very good at the game and others just beginners—
(a) Play progressive bridge—where the guests may move from table to table?
(b) Arrange the guests according to their adeptness at the game, and let them play non-progressive bridge?
(c) Let the guests sit wherever they like?

Answers
1. Disregard it.
2. No.
3. No.
4. Yes.
5. Only the last completed trick may be inspected, and it must be spread for all players to see. You might as well steal a look at another hand as look at earlier tricks.

Insurgents Pushed Back by Loyalists

Spanish Defenders Claim Victory on Western Front of Madrid

By the Associated Press

The Spanish government forces smashed through insurgent lines on the western front of Madrid Wednesday in one of the heaviest offensives in the history of the Spanish civil war.

Government commanders hurled 25,000 men against insurgent positions, particularly in the vicinity of Navalcarnero.

Prepare Offensive

Spanish government armies pushed a new offensive intended to break the long siege of Madrid Wednesday.

Troops under General Jose Miaja, commander of Madrid's government defenders, reported the seizure of Villanueva de la Canada, west of Madrid.

Government observers informed Valencia, the temporary seat of the republican government, that large forces of insurgents and their Moorish allies were massing on Teruel front, northwest of Valencia.

Several Arrested in Auto Theft Ring

Six Automobiles Are Recovered at El Dorado,
Officers Report

EL DORADO, Ark. — (P) — Police Chief W. E. Hickman announced Tuesday night recovery of six stolen automobiles and arrest of "several" persons in connection with activities of an automobile theft ring in this section over a period of several months.

He said Shreveport, La., police, Arkansas state troopers and an Atlanta insurance detective aided in the arrests and recovery of the cars.

The police chief said the six automobiles had been stolen in El Dorado but added that other cars had been recovered in Arkansas, Texas, Louisiana and California theft of which were attributed to the local "ring."

He said the Federal Bureau of Investigation was co-operating in investigation of the case and details of the arrests would not be made public until federal agents complete their work.

WASHINGTON. — (P) — Senator Logan, Democrat of Kentucky, carrying the fight for the Roosevelt court reorganization bill, told the senate Wednesday that the opponents of the legislation were using the issue to "destroy President Roosevelt."

Logan took the senate floor in the second day's debate on the bill after Senator Gaffey, Democrat of Pennsylvania, charged in an administration speech that the supreme court had "been partisan, prejudiced and biased in denying working men and farmers their fundamental and legal rights."

Logan declared that the opposition was using the judiciary to "conduct an adverse report on the court bill as a basis for organization of a new party."

Machine Age Bound to Benefit

YOU CANNOT travel far enough these days to get away from the problem raised by man's invention of machinery.

Ernie Pyle, roving reporter, visited Alaska recently and in the town of Petersburg met a man who believes he has perfected a shrimp-picking machine.

Shrimp are relatively tiny creatures which come out of the ocean encased in little shells. Getting them out of the shells so that they can be canned has always been strictly hand-work, and quite a few people get jobs every year at the canneries, doing this work.

But this chap whom Pyle stumbled across has spent 10 years working on a machine to do the work. He thinks, at last, that he has it ready to go; he plans to install 10 machines immediately in his cannery, and each machine will do the work that 10 men used to do.

THE RESULT is that even a small fishing village in Alaska which you might suppose would be the last place in North America to be bothered by "technological unemployment"—is going to get a taste of the machine age. A certain number of people who always, before this, could rely on several weeks or months of steady work will have to find something else to do hereafter. Machinery has advanced one more little step along the road toward the obsolescence of human labor.

This sort of thing has been happening on such a huge scale in the last few decades that the Alaskan development looks relatively insignificant. But it isn't. It is a grim little signpost, reminding us—in case anyone still doubted—that for better or for worse, the replacement of human labor by machine labor is going to continue.

It is not merely a problem of the big city; it is something that affects far-away fishing villages just as it affects big manufacturing centers.

NOW THERE is no use in bemoaning this development, for it is as certain and inexorable as death and taxes. And, indeed, in the long run, it cannot be anything but a tremendous boon to the race as a whole. Mankind is being relieved of drudgery; the mean, monotonous, back-breaking job that once were part of the universal human lot are being lifted off his back.

The trouble right now is that we reap the temporary-disadvantages of the process ahead of the permanent advantages. It is hard to rejoice over relief from drudgery when at the same time one is relieved of the chance to earn a living. The man who is put into a breadline by the machine may be pardoned for viewing themachine's blessings with a jaundiced eye.

To say that we are living in a period of transition is trite—but accurate. Our job now is to learn how to translate the machine's achievements in terms of the well-being of the entire community.

Required Reading

NO PART of a distasteful looks funnier, to inhabitants of a democracy, than its newspapers. And one of the funniest developments of all comes from Berlin, where a law journal suggests that under Nazi law it may be a misdemeanor to fail to read the daily papers.

It seems that in a vast number of trials, witnesses and defendants have pleaded ignorance of some Nazi rule or edict because they hadn't been reading the papers. The courts have got fed up with this, and are instructing all such persons to mend their ways instantly.

Such a rule is logical enough, certainly. What inducement is there to read the newspapers, in a land where every journal is under the thumb of a government ministry of propaganda, where all the news is filtered and colored and no writer dare disagree with the dictator? If you are going to have that kind of newspaper, you might as well have a law forcing people to read them; for otherwise a constantly increasing part of the populace is apt to leave them entirely alone.

Exercise to Develop an Appetite, Then Eat Three Good Meals a Day

(No. 259)
 Sometimes failure to gain weight is associated with excessive smoking, nervous exhaustion, lack of sleep or overactivity. All of these represent controllable factors.

There are certain foods which are much more useful in adding weight than others because they provide large amounts of food value without excessive bulk.

Milk, cream, butter, bacon, breads and vegetables with a high carbohydrate content provide large amounts of calories.

Peanut, lima beans, rice, macaroni and spaghetti are also useful substances in gaining weight. Furthermore, the diet may be enriched with malted milk, dried milk and olive oil.

The patient who is underweight should not only eat three meals a day but should also eat at periods between meals such as at 10:30 in the morning, 4 o'clock in the afternoon and again just before going to bed.

A certain amount of exercise is desirable in such cases as a means of increasing the appetite. The milder forms of exercise such as golf and walking are preferable.

In the majority of cases of under-nutrition, three good meals a day with an abundance of bread and butter usually will help to build up weight.

Breakfast may include some orange juice, a glass of cereal with cream and sugar, two boiled eggs, two or three slices of well-buttered toast, a little bacon, and a cup of tea or coffee with sugar and cream.

Around 10 o'clock in the morning, two glasses of milk containing one-third or one-half cream may be taken. The noon meal, instead of being a hastily snatched sandwich and a cup of coffee, may include a cream soup, some fat meat, chicken or fish, potatoes, green vegetables cooked with butter, some macaroni or rice to which butter has been added, and for desert a large helping of pudding or stewed fruit.

After this meal, also, one or two glasses of milk may be swallowed. The evening meal will duplicate the luncheon and it may be advisable to take a large glass of milk before going to bed. Such a diet will include from four to five thousand calories in 24 hours and will help to overcome under-nutrition.

They Don't Seem to Be Interested in the Other Side

In very severe cases of under-nutrition it may be necessary to put the patient in a hospital or private nursing home to be certain that he gets rest and that he actually takes his food served to him.

A recent method for fattening people rapidly involves the use of insulin. A short time before each meal, the patient is given a small dose of insulin and then a meal rich in carbohydrates follows.

Your Children

By Olive Roberts Barton

Vacation Joy Dulled By Haphazard Diet

Second of three articles on "Suggestions for Vacation."

During vacation, children with time on their hands try to fill the vacuum with food.

The mecca of their thoughts is the treat store on the corner, and their idea of play is a "party" with snacks mother sends out. Bites from the neighbor children's cookies, the tantalizing boxes of candy and nuts left over from mother's party—well, you see how it goes. A nibble here and a nibble there, makes a nibble everywhere. Let us look into these small junkies into goodlyland.

Actually I do not think that it matters whether children eat between meals or not. And besides, what would life be without nibbles and candy?

Prevent In-Between Snacks

However, you can't do that to your stomach all summer, day after day—and smile. If you get a tooth trained to eat sweets or sour, either, to the exclusion of good soup and peas and milk and eggs, it's just too bad.

After a meal is the best time for sweets. Next to that, any time that leaves a space of two hours before the next meal.

"But they get so hungry. They can't wait," you see.

This is true. Many children don't eat enough at a meal to keep a bird alive, and to train them to stretch their stomachs, although possible, is a hard task indeed. So the in-between lunch is permissible, but never close to meals.

Milk digests slowly always, so milk as a holdover will also chase appetite if drunk during these same two hours before a meal. Indeed, any snacks should be spaced so as not to interfere with appetite.

By and large, though, to go back to heterogeneous nibbling, the tendency in summer is to clutter the stomach with strange mixtures. Taken singly, few of the tasty treats are harmful, but to eat at any and all hours, and tickle the palate with things too sweet, too sour, too cold or too spicy, all thrown together, not only interferes with wholesome appetites for regular meals, but establishes habit and upsets dispositions.

Too much starchy food is another cause for indigestion in children. They can't live on potatoes, bread, corn, thick gravy, macaroni, and pie, and feel normal. Winter is different, although even then starches should not corner the market.

Ways to Avoid Trouble

Cold meals occasionally are all right, but in general they pall, and warm meals will go better.

If the children are feeling right in their tummies, they won't quarrel so much, or lie around and grovel. Don't let them gorge on fruit. It's tricky, it is, and little folk especially do better on simple fruits, cooked, than on berries for the toddler.

Pure ice cream is good for children, and sponge cake, too. Candy, pure, mind you, certainly has its place, but nothing should be too rich, too mixed, or too onesided, in the way of food.

Vacation diet, if reasonably balanced, plays a big part in good dispositions, and also prevents those recurrences of days in bed. Orange juice with the white of an egg, strained into water, is a good "refresher" for such times. But let's hope nobody needs the bed cure. Good judgment is the preventive, and this is better than cure any time.

"The most precious of elements isn't very exciting to see. Looks like gray talcum powder and isn't visibly luminescent enough at one meter to keep a bird alive, and to train them to stretch their stomachs, although possible, is a hard task indeed. So the in-between lunch is permissible, but never close to meals."

"Johnny cake" is a corruption of the word "Shawnee cake," a bread made by the Shawnee Indians, of finely beaten maize.

Louise Rainer and Spencer Tracy have started work in a picture about a war between two rival groups of taxicab operators. She has the role of Tracy's wife—her first straight, modern part since she came to Hollywood.

He's a taxi driver, and plenty tough. In fact, the whole picture will be plenty tough; they'll smash a fleet of 65 cabs and have hired practically all the stunt men and former prizefighters in town for the gang fights.

For one of the initial sequences he had to carry Miss Rainer up a long flight of stairs, with the camera boom following them along the railing. To get the timing and spacing just right, and presumably to spare Tracy some effort, a dummy was made to represent the actress. But the effigy was lifted and must have been stuffed with sand, for Tracy was puffing and perspiring after his fifth trip. He tossed the dummy over the rail and said, "Gimme Louise instead. I'll bet she doesn't weigh half as much."

And she doesn't weigh much, either. She has dieted off 25 pounds, she says. Since the filming of "Good Earth," Tracy has gained 25 pounds, she says.

On the first day of shooting, Tough-guy Tracy pretended to be outraged because he hadn't yet been provided with a star's dressing room. The property men promised to fix one for him, and they did. Worked half the night decorating it.

The furnishings include a canvas cot and ragged quilts, a packing case for a chair, an oil lantern, an old-fashioned crank telephone, a rickety table set with cracked dishes piled high with ancient flapjacks. Newspapers are pasted over the walls.

Outside, though, nothing is less than placed before the entrance, and huge bows of pink satin ribbons adorn the door and a window box full of dispirited geraniums.

A Book a Day

By Bruce Catton

An Exemplary Story of a Public Servant.

The most apt title of the year is the one which Richard L. Neuberger and Stephen B. Kahn have given to their new biography of Senator George W. Norris—"Integrity" (Vanguard Press, $3.00).

For Senator Norris has had that trait above all others. He has been true to himself and to his ideals. Not once, in a congressional career extending back to 1903, has he compromised, straddled or trimmed his sails. Our democracy in this century has no more encouraging feature than the simple fact that such a man could continue to be elected to high office.

The authors have done well by him in their book. They have given him a sympathetic and intelligent review, and they have managed to avoid the soppy softness of uncritical adulation. What comes out is a well-rounded picture of a man who must rank with the half-dozen truly great senators in the republic's history.

The politicians have only themselves to blame for making Norris what he is. Originally he went to Washington as a more or less orthodox Republican. The chicanery and duplicity of organization politics drove him to rebel against Boss Cannon; he never did get back on the reservation.

What battles he had! He fought to keep us out of war, suffered an appalling storm of vilification—and lived to see his stand commended by the people who had abused him. Single-handed, he saved Muscle Shoals for the TVA experiment. Single-handed, he ended the "lame duck" evil. He who had always played a lone hand lived to see a president of the United States come into his state and, in unprecedented manner, beg the voters to keep him in the Senate for the sake of good government.

It makes a great story, immensely heartening. I wish the book could be made required reading for every civics class in the land.

Styles of Stills

HOUSTON, Ala.—(A)—Federal Judge Charles B. Kennamer of Birmingham, Ala., says the moonshiners of Alabama and Texas have different ideas as to the best place to secrete a still. In Alabama, he explains, "they operate the stills in the mountains. In Texas you find them in private residences. To me it is a novel situation when you find such things in a home."

Cost of Wearing Hat: $5

BIRMINGHAM, Ala.—(A)—A tell-tale hat resulted in a visitor to Judge Abernathy's court being fined $5—for drunkenness. The inebriated defendant insisted on wearing the chapeau despite warnings from the bench.

"High tea" is a complete meal, served either in the afternoon or evening, at which tea is served.

Today's Pattern

DO your family tell you how fresh and pretty you look early in the morning? Do they come to the breakfast table with an eager look because you're dressed in something crisp and good-looking? If not, try this change with them and see how much better you will start the day.

The pattern (8963) is designed for just such purpose, and it's tailored enough to wear to the grocer's and around town shopping. As easy as a doll's dress to make, too. The waistline is fitted with darts and the simple skirt carries two roomy pockets. For tailored trimness, a shirtwaist collar is used at the neckline. This pattern is so very wearable and so easy to sew, that you'll find it a perennial favorite. Try it now in calico or voile—and in the fall, in a pretty challis.

Designed in sizes 12, 14, 16, 18, 20, 42, 44 and 46. (Suitable to all figure types.) Size 16 requires only 3 1/4 yards of 35 or 39 inch material if made with short sleeves.

For a complete selection of late dress designs, send for the summer pattern book. It's 15 cents if purchased separately. Or, if you want to order it with the pattern above, send in only an additional 10 cents.

To secure your pattern with step-by-step sewing instructions, send 15 cents in coin with your name, address, style number and size to Today's Patterns, 11 Sterling Place, Brooklyn, N. Y., and be sure to MENTION THE NAME OF THIS NEWSPAPER.

A Garden Path

A garden path may lead to anything—A bed of pansies like a paisley shawl, Or pink verbenas gaily bordering Delphiniums, blue against a grayish wall.

A garden path may find an apple tree With flagstones underneath, and chairs around A gracious table all laid out for tea, And ladies' frocks that gently sweep the ground.

A garden path may gradually grow cool And still—and this a garden under-stands— When it goes past a moonlit lily pool, There lovers whisper, holding hands.

Marlene at Her Bath—Barred by Film 'Czar'

With trousers or soapuds, Marlene Dietrich manages to keep her noted legs pretty well out of the public view. But that, along with the help of censorship from the office of Will Hays, movie "czar," may be part of the secret of their fame. For instance, here is Marlene, neck-deep in lather in a scene from the film, "Knight Without Armor." Little of the legs are showing, but the Hays office disapproved, and not only cut much of the film sequence, but banned release of the stills by American distributors. This still came from London, where the movie was made. As for Marlene herself, the greatest inconvenience of it all was the bath itself, as rehearsals, takes and retakes stretched her soapy immersion out for hours.

THEATERS

Rialto-Saenger
One of New York's most noted stage beauties, petite Mady Correll, makes her bow to screen audiences in "Midnight Madonna," a drama of mother love and a court battle waged for the custody of a child, now showing at the Rialto.

Miss Correll has had wide stage experience, ranging from musical comedy, drama and comedies to light opera. Her outstanding performance was in the New York stage hit "Dead End." She also appeared in that drama in many other cities during a six month period. Miss Correll plays the role of the mother, a night club entertainer, whose child, four-year-old Kitty Clancy, is snatched from her by a wastrel father when the youngster is made heir to a large estate. The cast is headed by Warren William and includes Robert Baldwin, Jonathan Hale, Edward Ellis and over one hundred dancing girls.

"Woman Chases Man," hilarious film comedy, brings Miriam Hopkins, Joel McCrea, Charles Winninger, Erik Rhodes and a great cast to the Saenger Thursday and Friday.

Miss Elizabeth Green left Wednesday morning for Santa Paula, Calif., where she will serve as maid of honor in the wedding of her schoolmate, Miss Bernice Boles of that city.

Mr. and Mrs. Sam D. Sullivan and mother, Mrs. Lillie Conway, of Houston, Texas, were week-end guests of Mr. and Mrs. J. A. Sullivan and family.

Mr. and Mrs. Paul Xanthull and children, of Houston, Texas, were guests of Mr. and Mrs. A. D. Middlebrooks in this city Tuesday, en route from a trip to New York. Mrs. Xanthull will be remembered as Miss Elizabeth Scott, daughter of the late Rev. and Mrs. T. D. Scott, a former pastor of the First Methodist church in Hope.

Mrs. R. L. Story and two daughters, Sue and Barbara Lee have returned home from Ada, Okla., where they spent last week. They were accompanied home by Nina Frances Story, niece of Mrs. Story.

Photographing lightning presents no problem other than patiently waiting for the flash with the lens open, the camera stationary. At the top—A night picture made with an exposure of 25 minutes at f.8 on chrome type film. It's probable that a shorter exposure would have sufficed.

OUTDOORS at night you will find many a good, perfectly "gettable" shot. Lightning, for example, takes its own picture very neatly. And the procedure is simple.

As a lightning storm approaches, place the camera (even a simple box type outfit will do) on a window sill or some other convenient perch, aim it at the storm center, open the shutter for a time exposure—and then wait for things to happen.

If you are lucky, a bolt of lightning will soon come within the ken of your camera. Then close the shutter, wind the film to the next number, and try again. Lightning pictures are doubly effective if they include nearby buildings or trees.

Picturing illuminated buildings, electric signs, and other night-blooming subjects is simply a matter of time exposure. The camera, of course, must be stationary. Length of exposure depends on the amount and color of light on your subject, and the kind of film used. The chrome type of film is excellent for outdoor night time exposures, as it minimizes flare from strong, exposed lights. Usually, you'll find exposures of from two to five minutes adequate (unless you stop the lens 'way down; then you'll need longer time). And if your subject is bathed in colored

Hempstead Home Agent

By MELVA BULLINGTON

Wallpaper can be the "gay receiver" in house decoration, making dark rooms look lighter, or small ones larger, declares Miss Melva Bullington, home demonstration agent.

The color and design of a wallpaper influence the atmosphere of the room, according to Miss Sue Marshall, Extension specialist in clothing and household arts, University of Arkansas, College of Agriculture. Sunny rooms call for cool looking blues, greens, or soft brown, while dark rooms can be made brighter with light tints of cream, tan, peach, pink, or terra-cotta. Plain paper, or a small all-over design, should be selected for the small room.

If the background of the paper blends in with the color of the woodwork, it will create an illusion of greater space. Large designs find a place in the larger rooms, but even then the design should not be spotty, naturalistic, or rambling, the specialist says.

A very professional looking job of papering may be done by any farm family of the proper tools and methods are used.

A paste or whitewash brush, a paper hanger's brush, long scissors or shears, a sharp knife, and a scaffold are necessary equipment for papering, according to Miss Sue Marshall, extension specialist in clothing and household arts, University of Arkansas College of Agriculture.

Before repapering a wall, it should be wet and all the old paper possible removed, especially in the corners and around openings. The wall should then be sized with a coat of glue sizing, using four handfuls of common glue to a bucketful of hot water. The sizing is allowed to dry overnight to avoid staining the wallpaper.

A flour paste is used, and is made by mixing one pound flour, one tablespoon each of alum, salt, and glue, adding cold water until the mixture is the consistency of cream, and then boiling water to form a paste just stiff enough not to pour. The paste is applied to the wall with a stiff brush.

Folding the strip with the center of the strip will make handling easier. Two people are needed to do this work, says Miss Marshall.

Hang a plumb line from the top of the wall and start papering on this straight line. This will insure having the strips straight up and down the wall. Adjust the strip of paper at the top seeing that it hangs straight along the plumb line; then brush downward and toward the edges to remove any wrinkles or air bubbles. Trim the bottom at the baseboard, using a clean cloth to prevent soiling them. The border is added last and is matched in the same manner that the wallpaper is handled.

Avoid using so much paste that the paper gets wet through as it may spot, Miss Marshall warns. Do not build a fire in a freshly papered room for the heat may cause the paper to crack, she adds.

Blackhead probably causes more losses in young turkeys than any other contagious disease, says Miss Bullington, home demonstration agent. A number of turkey growers in the county have reported losses from that cause.

The disease is carried by some old turkeys without visible symptoms, and many adult chickens also act as carriers. Soil upon which chickens or adult turkeys have ranged is usually contaminated and should not be used as a range for the young turkeys, according to S. A. Moore, extension poultryman, University of Arkansas College of Agriculture.

Artificial incubation and brooding will enable the grower to raise his

The body was identified as that of John F. Wolfe, Chicago. Mrs. Wolfe's body was found last week.

Robinson Introduces Tuberculosis Aid Bill

flock without contact with the sources of infection, the poultryman says. Foults hatched and raised under either turkey or chicken hens may become infected, but the use of clean range will lower the chances of infection. Soil that has been under cultivation for a year, with no domestic birds on it during that time, may be regarded as clean ground, he added.

Boys Scouts' Health Good at Jamboree

WASHINGTON.—(P)—The medical officer of the Boy Scouts of America congratulated the 7,000 boys Tuesday night on the state of their health.

Dr. W. L. Smith of New Orleans, public health service surgeon, said only 101 cases of sickness had been reported in a week.

"We couldn't have expected anything better than that with all types of boys coming from all parts of the country," he said, with a broad smile. "That these boys would not have had medical attention if they had been as healthy because their parents would have taken care of them."

A pageant was presented in the jamboree arena Tuesday night.

Dizzy Dean and Lefty Gomez to Be Starting Pitchers in All-Star Game

Capacity Crowd Including President Roosevelt and Other Notables to Attend Game at Griffith Stadium, Washington

WASHINGTON —(AP)—The major leagues will put on their fifth annual all-star game for the benefit of President Roosevelt and an expected capacity crowd of nearly 32,000 fans Wednesday. Teams selected by the rival pilots, Bill Terry of the New York Yankees and Joe McCarthy of the New York Yankees, will feature an opening pitchers' duel between Jerome Herman (Dizzy) Dean, ace right-hander of the St. Louis Cardinals and Vernon (Goofy) Gomez of the Yankees. Dean flew in from St. Louis after threatening a one-man sit-down strike. Gomez, one of five members of the Yankees in the Americans' line-up, will start for the fourth time in five seasons.

With both sides presenting their strongest arrays at the outset, the betting fraternity quoted 6 to 5 and take your choice.

Capacity Crowd Expected

For the first time since the inter-league "dream game" became a reality at Chicago in 1933, the S. R. O. sign will be out. Griffith Stadium, including even the bleacher seats at 55 cents each, has been sold out in advance. Standing room for 1,000 fans, at $1.10 each, will be sold shortly before the signal to play ball at 12:30 p. m. The capacity crowd will be less than half the size of the record all-star gathering of 69,812, which saw the Americans win at Cleveland in 1935, but will be the most notable crowd in the big event's brief history.

Notables to Attend

The president will be flanked by members of his personal and official family, besides a contingent of Eagle Scouts, here for the Jamboree. The House of Representatives voted to take the day off. The senate, in the midst of debate over judicial matters, decided to resume business at 10 p. m., thus permitting members to put in at least a three-hour day before any decision to leave the legislative halls for the ball park.

GET IN THE SWIM!

By JACK PABUK

Noted Swimming Instructor

Swimming is a vigorous but not violent sport. It has none of the strenuous exertion of most of the other sports, and yet all the muscles are brought into play.

It is ideal for the underweight person, who will find the exposure to the sun and the exercise adding necessary flesh, and at the same time it is a good means of reducing for the overweight fellow.

Sculling is one of the simplest stunts you can perform in the water when you get a little bored with just striking out and swimming.

To scull head first follow these steps: Assume floating log position, hands by side, and toes pointed and extending out of the water.

Execute a small, rapid motion away from the body with the hands, the palms pushing against the water. You will find yourself moving through the water head first.

To scull feet first, follow the same steps only reverse the movement of the hands to pull and not push toward the body and not away from it.

Shur Mark Good for 3 Years

NEW YORK—(NEA)—Gus Suhr's National League endurance record of 822 consecutive games will stand in the book for at least three years.

The closest contender to the Pittsburgh Pirates' first baseman is Joe Medwick. The St. Louis Cardinal outfielder played in his 368th straight game the day that Suhr had to rush to his dying mother's bedside.

Strangely, Suhr and Medwick started their streaks on the same date—Sept. 11. Suhr's was launched in 1931, Medwick's in 1934.

Secret Meet Held by Loop Directors

John D. Martin May Quit as Southern League President

MEMPHIS, Tenn.—(AP)—Directors of the Southern Association of Baseball clubs strolled out of a secret meeting here Tuesday with no comment on a published report Judge John D. Martin would retire from the presidency next fall.

Judge Martin announced that the meeting was for the purpose of discussing arrangements for the annual Dixie series between representatives of the Southern and Texas leagues, and concluded.

"That covers the action of the meeting,"

Later, Judge Martin declined to comment on a story by Freddie Russell in the Nashville Banner saying Dan Hill, now president of the Piedmont league, would be chosen assistant president Tuesday with the view of succeeding to the presidency in the fall.

"No action was taken other than that announced immediately after the meeting," Judge Martin said. Directors, referring all inquiries to Judge Martin, declined to discuss the meeting other than to agree that no other action was taken.

Hill was in Memphis for the purpose, he said, of talking with Earl Mann, Atlanta director, on matters respecting the National Association of Professional Baseball.

Asked if he had been picked as Judge Martin's ultimate successor, Hill countered:

"Has Martin resigned?" Later he said: "I have not been approached."

Martin announced he would meet with President Alvin Gardner of the Texas league within a few weeks to make arrangements for the Dixie Series.

The directors voted to pay players for not more than four days from the time the Southern Association ends until the Dixie series begins.

Craxs Score 6 in Ninth, Beat Pebs

Hooks' Triple With Bases Loaded Causes Defeat for Travelers

LITTLE ROCK—(AP)—Alex Hooks' booming triple with the bases loaded in the ninth inning started a wild finale that gave Atlanta a 9-6 victory over Little Rock in a series opener here Tuesday night.

The Pebbles had a three run lead going into the ninth and Rogers seemed in no danger. He blew up under pressure and collapsed after Hooks' terrific drive.

Dickman was rushed to the mound but too late to prevent the Crax from piling up six runs and the ball game.

Chicks Up There Again

MEMPHIS, Tenn.—(AP)—The Memphis Chicks returned to a tie for first place Tuesday night when they got away to an early lead and downed Chattanooga 7 to 4 while Atlanta was whipping Little Rock.

Fitcher Bill Phebus of the Lookouts gave up eight hits in six innings before Sauerbrun went to the rescue too late. Shortstop Buster Blakeney led the Chicks attack with three for four, all singles. Conker Triplett hit the longest drive of the game, a triple.

She's So Busy With Own 'Team,' Mrs. Ormsby Can't Go to Games

By Mary Elizabeth Plummer

NEW YORK —(AP)—Mrs. Emmett Ormsby, wife of the American league umpire, does her bit for baseball by caring for their 12 children, ranging from 6 months to 14 years old.

Mrs. Ormsby hasn't had time to see a league game in four years.

"That's my husband's business," she says. "Mine is at home."

Caring for her flock means 15 hour's work a day for Mrs. Ormsby. She gets up at 5, cooks three meals daily, does the shopping. After breakfast she wheels out the family motor car and takes eight of the youngsters three miles to school.

She keeps young with the children. There are no traces of gray in her black hair, no lines of weariness in her face. She has an Irish sense of humor, and an infectious smile.

Baseball's Love Story

Mrs. Ormsby doesn't believe in minding her husband's business, but she made the spring training trip to Florida this year, taking six children with her, and she drove them back alone, covering the 1,330 miles in two and a half days.

"Why should I tell Emmett what to do about baseball?" she asks. "He has a mind of his own, and a good one, too."

The Ormsbys are one of the great love stories of baseball. In his absence, they never have failed to write each other daily for 16 years, the length of their marriage. He telephones home at least twice a week while on the road.

Gabby's 'Home Girl'

Another baseball "home girl" is Mrs. Charles Leo Hartnett, attractive young blonde wife of the Chicago Cubs' noted catcher, "Gabby."

She sums up the Hartnetts' philosophy: "Charles' job is baseball. Mine is running a home and rearing two children."

She likes gardening, raises flowers, is an adept cook of the roasts, steak and chicken that her husband likes.

She has big brown eyes, a smiling laugh and a trim, youthful figure. When she married, she was 21, and sure she knew first base from second. Now she knows all the jargon.

LaRance Winner Over 'Buddy' Knox

Biggest Crowd of Season Witnesses Fight Card Tuesday Night

Tuesday night's boxing and wrestling card at the South Walnut street arena proved to be about the best program offered here this season. A large crowd attended.

"Speedy" LaRance defeated "Buddy" Knox in the feature event of the night. It was a scientific exhibition and pleasing to the fans. LaRance took the first fall in three minutes.

Knox took the second fall in seven minutes when he clamped on an Indian death lock. The third fall required 19 minutes, LaRance taking the decision with a reverse death-lock.

A battle royal opened the program, followed by a three-round fight by Eddie Moss and Jughead. Moss won on points.

Kid Blackie took a four-round decision from Chester Yerge, both giving a good exhibition.

In the heavyweight division D. K. Carson, 171-pounder, was declared the winner over Edmund Davis, 185 pounds, in a close decision. The bout was four rounds. Carson has been challenged by Fred Scott for a fight

Night Baseball Is Started at Helena

HELENA, Ark.—(AP)—More than 2000 persons crowded Helena's new recreation park Tuesday night for dedication of the WPA-built project and the city's first night baseball game between Helena and Clarksdale of the Cotton States League.

J. Walter Morris, president of the Cotton States League, was guest of honor for the ceremonies.

Miss Marion Foster, "Miss Helena" of 1936, threw the switch illuminating the park for the first time.

Clemency Asked for Robbery Pair

Relatives Claim Two Men Not Guilty of Bank Holdup

LITTLE ROCK, Ark.—(AP)—A plea of relatives that L. J. "Doc" Southerland, 31, and Ovid "Preacher" Mathis, 28, be furloughed from the Texas penitentiary until their innocence of bank robbery charges could be proved went forward Tuesday from Governor Bailey to Governor James V. Alfred of Texas.

Southerland and Mathis, Little Rock residents, are serving terms of 30 and 20 years respectively for the robbery in 1934 of the First National Bank of Atlanta, Texas.

Charles Chapman, escaped Arkansas convict convicted of robbing the bank last year, recently confessed that he and Luther Bone robbed the institution in 1934. They now are under federal indictment for the crime and will be tried at Beaumont, Texas, next January. Bone is in the Texas penitentiary serving time on another charge.

Making no recommendation to Alfred, Governor Bailey said, "I am convinced that the relatives of Mathis and Southerland are sincere in their assertions that investigations have shown the two men to be deserving of clemency."

Wald Martin, attorney representing the two men, said: "A furlough is all we are asking because we are thoroughly convinced at the federal trial in January, these boys' names will be cleared."

Spa Mayor Denies Got Gaming Profits

Attorney Charges That McLaughlin Received 25 Per Cent "Take"

LITTLE ROCK.—A charge that Mayor Leo P. McLaughlin received a 25 per cent "take" on all gambling operations in Hot Springs was made before the Pulaski Chancery Court Tuesday by Charles B. Thweatt, who formerly was attorney for Mrs. Florence McLaughlin who is seeking a divorce and property settlement from the mayor.

Mayor McLaughlin denied the allegation. He said he would ask the Garland County Grand Jury to investigate Mr. Thweatt's charge. "If I am guilty of any of the offenses hinted in the proceedings I should be removed from office," he said.

"Neither I nor any other Hot Springs city official has ever received any revenue from gambling or other unlawful sources," he said, explaining that he objected to the "innuendoes" to which he said he had been subjected since the divorce litigation was started more than a year ago.

Hearing on Fee
The hearing was in connection with a petition filed by Mr. Thweatt asking payment of fees for serving as Mrs. McLaughlin's attorney. He was allowed $200 to supplement a $300 fee allowed some time ago. He also was allowed $49.54 for expenses.

P. A. Lesley, his successor as Mrs. McLaughlin's attorney, was allowed $250 as a preliminary fee and $100 expenses. Chancellor Dodge upheld a motion filed by Owens, Ehrman and McHaney, attorneys for Mayor and McLaughlin, asking that Mrs. McLaughlin's complaint be made more definite and certain as to its allegations of mismanagement.

Estate Claims

Mrs. McLaughlin alleged in her divorce suit that Mayor McLaughlin had an estate valued at $300,000 and an income of $5,000 monthly. Most of the estate is in cash and government bonds, she said. She is seeking one-third of the estate.

Mayor McLaughlin said he could prove the value of his estate was approximately $30,000. He denied that he had any concealed assets.

Hot Weather is Here—Beware of Biliousness!

Have you ever noticed that in very hot weather your organs of digestion and elimination seem to become torpid or lazy? Your food sours, forms gas, causes belching, heartburn, and a feeling of restlessness and irritability. Perhaps you may have sick headache, nausea and dizziness or blind spells on suddenly rising. Your tongue may be coated, your complexion bilious and your bowel actions sluggish or insufficient.

These are some of the most common symptoms or warnings of biliousness or so-called "torpid liver," so prevalent in hot climates. Don't neglect them. Take Calomel, the improved calomel compound tablets that give you the effects of calomel and salts, combined. You will be delighted with the prompt relief they afford. Trial package ten cents, family pkg. twenty-five cents. At drug stores.
